

The 2019 Annual Congress of Anaesthesiology and Intensive Care Medicine was held in the terrific venue of Croke Park. The backdrop and weather added to the great event which saw Fresenius Kabi attend for the first time. A number of international delegates were in attendance as well as the prestigious cohort of Anaesthetists, registrars and trainees practicing in Ireland. For our part Fresenius Kabi a provider of Anesthesia products in Ireland were delighted to use the opportunity to discuss key issues with our customers and to introduce new products. “It is always great to spend time with our customers and potential customers and to get their input and feedback, it can be a very productive fact finding mission to assist with innovation and determining needs” Natasha Doyle Product Manager IVD. “We are constantly looking at ways to support this very complex area of medicine through our studies and research and feel that it is an invaluable experience to be a part of these events.”
